

• Bob Mansfield, up on Lucky Strike, goes back to the herd for another calf while Jack Mansfield, Foreman Cauble, and other hands brand, vaccinate, castrate, and dehorn . . . all in one smooth operation.

• Foreman Jack Cauble, left, and his son, Jack, Jr., along with the other hands, give the ponies rugged workouts on the Mansfield ranges. Lucky Strike, left, and India, with Jack, Jr., up, are two of the working geldings among the ranch favorites.

• Mansfield and Bruce Cauble both love the horses. Bruce is one of the herd holders at round-up time. Mansfield is proud of his stock and their history, but he tries to avoid publicity, fearing other cattlemen might think him vain.

• Foreman Cauble, astride an Appaloosa, snakes loose a rope and prepares to drag another calf to the branding fire.

• Comanche, 15-year-old registered Appaloosa stallion, is pictured in the foreground as he guards his small band of mares and foals that roam the vast Texas rangeland.
